

Mars Update

Posted by stark - 28 Mar 2012 19:02

We have officially been given the go ahead to update mars, so during the next few weeks expect massive updates and changes to the surface and layout of the martian landscape as well as updates to the outpost as well as other parts of mars. These updates are to take full advantage of the landscape as well as add a new dimension to combat and RP which includes terrain collision and exploration. We are planning on opening the sky as well as updating to mesh where needed. So if you see missing terrain and facilities do not freak out, its all part of the building process.
